

"Harmony of Nature" invites viewers to appreciate the serene beauty and profound connections found in countryside artworks. This exhibition highlights how various artists from different cultural backgrounds have interpreted landscapes through their unique lenses. The delicate strokes in "The Orchid Pavilion Gathering" and the refined elegance of "Scholar in Landscape" transport us to tranquil moments in nature, echoing the traditional philosophies of harmony between man and the environment. Chinese landscapes, such as "Spring Arriving in the Han Palace" and "Mountain Villa after Rain," showcase the seasonal changes that resonate with feelings of renewal. The French contributions, like Th  odore Rousseau's vivid depiction of a French countryside, illustrate the emotional resonance of nature while also connecting to the broader theme of human interaction with the landscape. Additionally, works like "Watching the Waterfall" and "Poetic Thoughts in a Forest Pavilion" reflect deep introspection catalyzed by serene settings, while emphasizing the meditative qualities of nature. This exhibition not only unites diverse artistic expressions of countryside themes but also invites audiences to reflect on their personal connections with the great outdoors.
